Latest figures show that the thirty-three life insurance companies doing business in Kentucky in 1896 made a gross profit of $1,799,164.01.

A Virginian evangelist preached to the people from a "mission boat" on the river. He cannot be induced to preach on shore. "Water and religion," he says, "go together."

An Arkansas editor, reading that a young lady in New York KNEADS bread with her gloves on, says: "We NEED bread with our boots on; we NEED bread with our pants on; and if our subscribers in arrears don't pay up soon WE SHALL NEED BREAD WITHOUT ANYTHING ON."

An Oklahoma farmer wrote to a friend in the East trying to give some idea of the soil out there. He said they have to mow the grass off the sod floor to find the baby. One family near him had twin babies, with only one cradle, and the kid who had to sleep on the floor grew twice as fast as the other. Where the soil is richest a man dare not stand on one foot any length of time lest one leg becomes longer than the other and bother him in walking.—Exchange.

We know of some people who profess to be wholly sanctified, who, if their faults were written on their foreheads, they would pull their hats over their eyes.

Job Printing neatly executed at this office on short notice.

If any section of the country is in need of tramps some rare specimens can be corralled at this point almost any day. The other night a young man was riding on the trucks of one of the night express cars and his balance fell on the track and two coaches passed over. Did they hurt him? Not much. He turned his other cheek and they couldn't dent it.—Kentucky Colonel.

Mark Hanna in Trouble.

On last Saturday in Washington a young politician, not the slightest Anglo-Saxon, who had been waiting on Mark Hanna's promises for a job, having become weary, met the old gentleman with an assault of words. The young negro's name is Jason M. Tilley, and is a resident of Cleveland, Ohio. The negro mad because of delay, said: "How long do you propose to keep me waiting for a job? I'm tired of this hide-and-seek way of doing business and want an answer to-day. You have been making a monkey of me long enough!"

Hanna, dumbfounded for a moment, said:

"Get out of here; if you don't move on the double quick I'll have to throw you out bodily!"

The negro did not move, and, as far as we know, has not moved yet. He retorted:

"Don't think because you are a Senator that you can scare me a little bit. You and your man Perkins have been keeping me off for three months, simply playing me for a sucker."—Mt. Sterling Advocate.

The New York Printer and Bookmaker offers a prize to the best answer to the question: What is a printer? A Michigan youth who has recently contributed three fingers to job press says: "A printer is a darned fool."

The Frankfort Capital, a Republican journal in speaking of its own party, very truthfully remarks:

Ten years ago it was not considered respectable to be a Republican in Kentucky. Now it really isn't respectable to be a Republican of the kind that is running party affairs here and in Washington. They used to call it the "nigger party;" now the negroes are about the only decent ones left who affiliate with the gang headed by Hunter, Deboe, Todd, Taylor, Franks, Sapp, Erdman and their tribe. And the negro suffers in reputation by the association.

The Joys of an Editor.

Editing a paper is a pleasant business—if you like it.

If it contains much political matter, people won't have it.

If the type is large, it don't contain much reading matter.

If we publish telegraphic reports, folks say they are nothing but lies.

If we omit them, we have no enterprise, or suppress them for political effect.

If we have a few jokes, folks say we are nothing but rattle-heads.

If we omit jokes, they say we are nothing but fossils.

If we publish original matter, they abuse us for not giving selections.

If we give selections, people say we are lazy for not writing more, and giving them what they have not read in some other paper.

If we give complimentary notice, we are censured for being partial.

If we don't all hands say we are a great hog.

If we insert an article which pleases the ladies, the men become jealous, and vice versa.

If we attend church, they say it is for effect.

If we remain in our office attending to our business, folks say we are too proud to mingle with other fellows.

If we go out, they say we don't attend to our business.

We must work harder, more hours in a day, with less recreation, or less sleep and proper pay, than any of our fellow mortals. We must be busy when our neighbors are idle, busier when they sleep and busiest while they are enjoying a good time.

We must always be in a hurry, always under a press of business, always "setting up" when others are lying down, and always charitably "distributing" the result of our daily labor.

Our opinions always go to "proof," but seldom into practice. We must publish a paper for $1.25 in advance that costs $3, and wait for pay till a collector has gotten his commission for collecting it.

It is a life of mingled and ill, trial and triumph, never-ending toil and beginning felicity wherein we work out allotted time, with the "devil" always at our elbow calling for—"more copy."—Country Publisher.

Thomas McKinney happened to a dangerous accident on last Saturday, his horse which he was riding home from Levee fell down with him and on top of him. He managed to make it home, but was very badly hurt. We are proud to say that he is able to be out again.

Two years ago such a thing as hauling flour from the mill, or groceries from Mt. Sterling was hardly thought of, but to day most of the goods sold in this market are hauled from either Mt. Sterling or Winchester, a quantity of flour, however, is hauled from Mansfield's mill at Cat Creek. W. J. Christopher & Co. hauled their entire spring stock consisting of several thousand pounds of freight, through from Winchester, and will do the same thing again this fall. J. E. Burgher will have his fall stock hauled from some point on the C. & O. or Winchester. Several merchants of Clay City are talking of hauling their goods through, and should they do so they will find it a great saving to them on freight. We believe all the merchants along the L. & E. Road below Stanton would save much money by having their goods hauled through from the C. & O. This would, also, cause the L. & E. to do away with the present extortionate rates of freight and establish more reasonable rates.

A Wonderful Physician.

Across the hills from our adjacent town of Milford is a little country postoffice named Mt. Hor. Few letters or papers find their way to the obscure little hamlet and the place would be of no importance were it not for the strikingly peculiar character it contains. Yet this village is every day thronged with people who have traveled through rain or shine, heat or cold, to touch the garment of the noted doctor, J. W. Jacobs, and be made whole. And assuredly they meet a most peculiar individual. Tall, lank and ungainly, with his seventy odd years upon him, he would be taken for some hermit rather than the noted physician whom people of all grades of social conditions from the most illiterate to the most cultured and refined, are everywhere praising for his ability to cure disease.

His educational advantages were certainly meager and if he ever saw inside a medical college his looks, words and actions belie the fact. But all return telling of his wonderful power of diagnosing disease and expressing the greatest astonishment at his ability to tell their every ache and pain before he has learned their names or asked them a single question. But little medicine is ever given and only a charge of a dollar or so is ever made unless the patient's attire indicates a full purse, when he makes them pay more liberal and yet it is said that he is growing rich, such are the crowds that daily visit him. No fewer than twenty-three persons, many having traveled for miles, were to see him one day last week and, we are told, was not an unusual number.

The question arises, whence come these results. Has the old man some strange mesmeric power, or shall we go back to the belief of the Aborigines of America who had faith that the "medicine man" had power to charm away disease? Or is it true that there is no such thing as disease and only exists in the imagination of its unfortunate possessor?—Mt. Olivet Advance.
